THE TENTH CENSUS.

Mr. S. S. Cox, of New York, has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives which provides for taking the tenth census of the United States. Judging from an outline of the bill sent by telegraph, its provisions are quite important, and seem to be an improvement over that under which the ninth census was taken. While the last census is an admirable compilation of facts and figures, and exceedingly valuable, there is no doubt room for advantageous changes; and if the provisions should be carried out, will make the census of 1890 still more useful. It is remarkable to survey the progress this country has made in the matter of taking the census since the first was taken under the Constitution nearly ninety years ago. What we now call the "census" is the result of a uniform and steady development. In 1790, when the first enumeration was had, the schedule comprehended six inquiries only—(1) names of the heads of families; (2) free white males of sixteen years and upwards, including heads of families; (3) free white males under sixteen years; (4) free white females, including heads of families; (5) all other free persons; and (6) slaves. Under the census of 1870, there were six schedules, comprehending over one hundred inquiries. Now let us look at the cost of taking the various censuses and other important facts connected therewith, which will present a striking illustration of the vast growth of our country.

In 1790, the entire census report was printed in a pamphlet of 52 pages, was published in 1792, and the entire cost of the enumeration was $4,377.13.

In 1800, the census report was published in a folio form, containing 73 pages, was published in 1801, and cost $66,609.04.

In 1810, the third census filled two folio volumes. By this time, an advance step had been taken. It not only contained an enumeration of the inhabitants, but it also had tables showing the several branches of American manufactures in every county then in the United States, so far as they were reported to the Marshals. This census cost $175,444.67.

In 1820, the census filled two folio volumes, the whole number of pages being only 264. The statistics were not very different from those given in 1810. The fourth census of 1830, cost $208,525.99.

In 1830, the census was poorly taken and very badly printed. The whole matter covered only 163 pages, while the entire cost was $375,543.13.

In 1840, the United States made a bold strike in enumerating the inhabitants and in furnishing interesting statistics. The census filled four respectable folio volumes, one volume being a "census of pensioners of Revolutionary and military service, with their names, ages, and places of residence. The sixth census cost $533,370.95.

In 1850 another advance was made. Beside an enumeration of the people and statistics pertaining to manufactures, it also added mortality statistics. The entire census filled four folio volumes, and cost $1,329,327.53.

In 1860, the eighth census filled four volumes, and for the first time agriculture was made a subject of report. The cost of this census was $1,932,272.42.

The census of 1870 was by far more complete and exhaustive than any previous census. The first volume contained statistics of the population of the United States, embracing the tables of race, nationality, sex, selected ages, and occupations, to which was added the statistics of school attendance and illiteracy, of schools, libraries, newspapers, and periodicals, churches, pauperism and crime, and of areas, families and dwellings. The second volume gave vital statistics of the United States, embracing the tables of deaths, births, sex, and age, to which were added the statistics of the blind, the deaf and dumb, the insane and the idiotic. The third volume treated of the wealth and industry of the United States, embracing the tables of taxation, wealth, public indebtedness, agriculture, manufactures, mining, and the fisheries. Up to this time there never had been published in this country books which contained so much valuable and important statistical information pertaining to the United States. The entire cost of the ninth census was $3,336,511.41.

The bill which Mr. Cox has introduced, seeks to materially change the law under which the census of 1870, 1880, and 1890, were taken. Then the United States Marshals were authorized to take the census, under instructions from the Department of the Interior. The new bill provides that supervisors shall be nominated by the Governors of the several States, and reported to the Secretary of the Interior, and these names so designated by the Governor shall be the supervisors of the census. It is thought by this method of taking the census, a greater amount of valuable and more reliable information can be procured, as it is probably the Governors will nominate persons who are adapted for the work. Another important change sought by this bill, is to take the census every five years instead of ten as now, and shall be left very much to the control of the States, each State paying half the cost of the expense of taking the census within its own borders. The suggestion to take the census every five years, will probably receive some opposition, but the idea is a good one, and that provision of the bill should be adopted. It should also provide for the statistics regarding the price of various commodities, and also that of all kinds of labor. These important and valuable facts have heretofore been omitted in previous census reports.

THE INDIANS.

The Cheyennes Engage the Third Cavalry at Fort Robinson.

FORT ROBINSON, Neb., January 12.—Fifty Cheyenne savages are still at large, having escaped from their stronghold among the bluffs last night, where the troops had cornered them. Their trail was followed this morning, going northwest. The advance guard of the troops were fired upon by a party of savages at noon today, who were, doubtless covering the retreat of the main band, killing Corporal Ore, of Company A, Third Cavalry. The other members of the guard, seeing their leader falling dead from his horse, shot through the heart, charged on the Indians who were concealed in a rifle-pit, near the top of a ridge. In the charge the guard killed one Indian, and wounded another, but the remaining Indians escaped through the heavy timber.

At 4 o'clock this evening the troops had got up with the savages, who surprised the troops, firing a volley into their midst, wounded Private Hunter, of Company C, Third Cavalry, in the right shoulder. The savages were entrenched in the bed of a small stream. The troops kept up a continuous fire in the direction where the savages are supposed to be until dark, when firing was discontinued until morning.

Two more companies of the Third Cavalry, commanded by Major Vroom, left here at dark this evening for the scene of hostilities.

THE IRON TRADE.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—The report of the condition of the American iron trade for the past year has just been completed. It states that the production of pig iron in the United States in 1878 was 2,314,585 tons, and in 1877 was 2,382,000 tons. Pennsylvania shows an increase of over 100,000 tons, while Ohio shows a decrease of over 30,000 tons. In 1878 Pennsylvania made more than 50 per cent of the total production of pig iron in the United States. At the close of 1877 there were in the United States 716 blast furnaces, of which 270 were in blast and 446 out of blast. Stock of pig iron on hand and unsold at the close of 1877 amounted to 642,351 net tons. At the close of 1878 stocks amounted to 638,795 tons. Production of 1878 was increased about 70,000 tons, stocks decreased about 126,000 tons, and consumption increased about 195,000 tons. Ten out of eleven steel works were busily engaged in the production of steel rails during the entire year. Putting iron and steel rail products of the year together we have in round numbers a total of 930,000 net tons as the rail product of the year. This product has only once been exceeded in history, in 1873, when the product reached one million net tons. In 1879 we will probably equal that immense product.

ST. MARTINS.

The Bad Egg Incubated by the Potter Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 11.—The Potter Committee today had another wrangle over the witness St. Martins and his famous affidavit, but neither the Democrats nor the Republicans would assume the responsibility for him. The Democrats, however, took the extraordinary position that they would not permit the affidavit to go upon their official records, notwithstanding it was made by an employee of the Committee and charged various persons, including a member of the Committee, were very extraordinary if not corrupt transactions. However the affidavit will probably be made public, and as St. Martins may be examined Tuesday next as a witness, the truth or falsity of his charges may be made apparent. The Democrats certainly ought to be the first to demand an investigation, as the charges are altogether of too serious a character to permit even a day's delay.

A. M. Gibson, correspondent of the New York Sun, who is referred to in the affidavit as an agent of Mr. Tilden, says that St. Martins' story as to himself is false and ridiculous; that St. Martins is now under indictment on the charge of having attempted to kill a negro, and that St. Martins has himself acknowledged that this very affidavit was made for money and the promise of political office.

Mr. Stenger, the Chairman of the "Sub-Committee to which the affidavit refers, says that it would be improper for him at present to say anything about it. His friends, however, it is understood, are preparing a statement in which they will charge that the affidavit is a put-up job, arranged by a Federal official here in New Orleans, and that witness is not a credible person.

Maddox, who is said to have been supplied in some way with a copy of this very affidavit which the Committee has endeavored to keep so secret, is not disposed to say anything on the subject, and it is reported by some of St. Martins' friends as being very much opposed to having St. Martins testify.

SHAMEFUL.

Another Member of Congress Makes a Shameful Exhibition of Himself.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Notwithstanding the warning offered by the death of his colleague, a Democratic member of Congress from a Southern State was seen this morning reeling up Pennsylvania avenue so drunk that he had to enquire the way to the Capitol. He was taken in charge by his friends and imprisoned in his rooms until he could become sober. He was met by a party of delegates to the World's Fair Convention, now in session here, and his condition furnished illustration for argument that men are not fitted to govern the country.

SENATORIAL CAUCUS.

Action of the Republican Senatorial Caucus at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The caucus of Republican Senators today was called by Senator Edmunds, to take action on the order of business, and a committee on the subject was appointed to report at a future meeting. There was an interchange of views on political questions. Resumption of specie payments was a general matter of congratulation, and was claimed as a measure originating with and carried by the Republican party, and which was successful notwithstanding the persistent efforts of the Democrats to defeat it.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

WATERTOWN, Jan. 12.—The coming election for State Senator to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Senator Phillips, is creating something of a stir among the politicians on both sides in the district. The candidates on the Democratic side have multiplied until they are as numerous as the grains of sand on the ocean's shore.

The most lengthy part of the campaign, as before the convention meets, as the nomination will not be made until Thursday, the 15th, and on Tuesday following, January 21, election is held, giving the candidate only three working days to present his claims to the constituency of the county. The Republican county committee will select the candidate for the Republicans to support, and they meet on the same day with the Democrats. Altogether both parties will have to make rapid strides to cover the ground necessary before election day. The Republicans have no lack of good men to nominate. Among those mentioned are C. B. Skinner, Daniel Hall, Joseph B. Bennett, G. Werlich, of Watertown, Robert Fargo, of Lake Mills, a life long friend of the late Senator Phillips and at whose home he died, D. W. Curtis, of Fort Atkinson, and others which space will omit to mention.

ALARMING MORTALITY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 12.—It is reported by the friends of Representative J. A. Hubbell, of Michigan, that it has been necessary to send him to his home in Michigan in charge of an attendant on account of quite serious threatened illness. Representative Thornburgh, of Tennessee, according to latest advices, is still dangerously ill of pneumonia. Representative Finley, of Ohio, yesterday had a very dangerous hemorrhage of the lungs, which may possibly prove fatal, and tomorrow the funeral of Representative Schleicher, the fourth member who died within thirty days, is to be held in the House of Representatives.

INDIGNATION MEETING.

RIPON, Jan. 11.—The indignation meeting held here this afternoon by the taxpayers of the town of Ripon was moderately well attended. The acts of Mr. Dobbs, Chairman of the County Board, were reviewed and many severe charges made against him. A meeting of several towns in this end of the county is appointed at Brandon, January 11. The farmers feel that they have been imposed upon about long enough and are now looking up a remedy.

WHOLESALE MURDER.

OMAHA, Neb., January 11.—A German named Bushick shot his wife and father-in-law (Boyce) yesterday, three miles north of Pacific, Indians. A large party started in pursuit of Bushick, followed him through the timber, and to-day gained sight of him in the open prairie. When within eight rods, Bushick drew a jackknife and cut his throat from ear to ear. He was taken to Glenwood. Physicians think his life can be saved. His wife will probably die. Boyce will recover.

TRAYNOR ARRESTED.

JUNEAU, Jan. 12.—Upon complaint made by Geo. Schoott, County Treasurer, against O. W. Traynor, late treasurer, for embezzlement, the latter has been arrested, and waiving examination, bound over for trial to the Circuit Court in the sum of $12,000. No bail having yet been obtained, Mr. Traynor is confined in the county jail.

OLD ARMY MUSKETS.

REEDSBURG, Wis., Jan. 11.—William Burdick, of North Freedom, near here, was accidentally killed on yesterday by the explosion of an old army musket, which he had taken to himself with him. One of the pieces buried itself in his brain killing him instantly.

MONDAY, JANUARY 13, 1879.

S. S. Prentiss.

"I have been asked who, among the Congressmen of the past half-century, was the greatest orator, and I reply, without hesitation, Sargent S. Prentiss. Born and educated in Maine, he went to Mississippi, where he was for two years a tutor in a private family, and then, by ability and personal courage, he rose from obscurity to renown, from the very foot to the topmost round of the ladder of Fame. In due time he was sent to the House of Representatives from Mississippi, and his election was contested, causing a long and exciting debate in the winter of 1838, in which he was the leader and challenger. He was not a man of imposing personal appearance, and a duel would have made him stand ungracefully and limp as he walked, but before political gatherings or on the floor of the House of Representatives I have never heard him equal as an orator. His intellectual endowments presented a rare example, in which great logical powers and the most vivid imagination were happily blended. While he frequently sought to amuse, he rarely failed at the same time to instruct an audience. His brilliant wit, his keen sarcasm, and the rapidity with which he illustrated his points by a rapid succession of brilliant metaphors, made him formidable as an antagonist and wonderfully attractive to all who heard him. Unfortunately, his convivial habits undermined his health, and he died in his 43d year."

Punishing Prisoners with Electricity.

Some philosophers contend that electricity is life, the cause of all things. Every month or two we see that it is applied in some new way as a helper of mankind. Recently it has been used as a punishment in the Ohio penitentiary, at Columbus, and the method is thus described: The apparatus is in a box ten inches long, three high and three wide, and contains an electromagnet. The prisoner is taken to the ducking-box formerly used in the insane department; in striped and blindfolded before coming in sight of the water-box, then led around a corner of the interior cell building and put in the box handcuffed, though not shackled at the feet. He sits down—the room is warm—in three inches of water, in which one pole of the battery is placed, a sponge being fastened to the other pole. With a crank attached to the apparatus is turned, the bare flesh of the prisoner is touched with the sponge, and being blindfolded he has no idea when or where he is to be touched, and consequently is not nervous against it. The application often makes the convict scream, though it does not hurt him, and has proved so effective as to reduce, it is said, visitors to the room 45 per cent. The dungeons in the prison have been diminished to five, about one convict a week being sent there. Electricity has been substituted for the ducking-tub and the report that prisoners exposed to it suffer more than by ducking is authoritatively denied. Physicians say that its application is often beneficial physically.

The Garconer (Family Seeking a Bible That They Think Will Secure Them $40,000,000.

From the Philadelphia Record.

To the American members of the Carpenter family, and to those of their allies who inter-married with them, there are about nine estates bequeathed and unclaimed in the English Court of Chancery. The largest of these estates is that of William Carpenter, who died in the year 1700, at an advanced age. It is now estimated that this property is worth $400,000, or in United States currency $300,000,000.

Several efforts have been made to recover this immense fortune, but in every case the Chancellor has decided against the claimants. In these contests it was very clearly shown, however, that the heirs to the colossal estate were to be found only in America. The Carpenters of Rhode Island and Massachusetts have been denied the right to the property, and now the same family on Long Island is searching for papers and seeking for information. They have already secured records which lead back to the year 1593, and claim to establish a direct line from William Carpenter, the testator, to Ephraim and Timothy Carpenter, who are settled on Long Island in 1676. It is the heirs of these men that now seek to recover the fortune.

There is a very important relic in this suit that has been sought for in vain. This is the family Bible of Timothy Carpenter. It is 20 inches broad, 10 inches long and from 8 to 10 inches thick. It was provided with two circles at each end, and three at the opening, and was bound in leather and brass. This relic is filled with family records that are of great value in the prosecution of the claim. When it was last heard of it was in the possession of Ralph Derrig, who is supposed to be a resident of Western New York, and a person interested in the suit. The country is being scoured for the book, and rewards are offered for information touching its whereabouts.

Never Judge by Appearances.

John Worst on Friday wandered from his home in the Fourth Ward up to Harlem, where a policeman found him nearly midnight sitting on a stoop and nearly frozen. He was thawed out in the station house and arraigned yesterday before Judge Duffy in the Harlem Police Court. The Magistrate gave Mr. Worst a lecture on his seeming indifference to his own health, and in closing told him that as his appearance indicated he was a poor man, he should only impose a nominal fine of $2 as a slight offering to the City Treasury in return for having had his life saved. The culprit remarked, "He could never forget his Honor's kindness," and then began to search for the necessary good-bye. He had produced an immense roll of bills from his pocket, but the denominations were apparently too large. Another pile was then unrolled from a hidden receptacle, and finally a $2 note was passed to Chief-Clark Long. The Judge gazed admiringly up at Worst while the performance was going on, and afterward said to him, "If I had only known as much a quarter of an hour ago as I do now, your tax would have been $10; as it is, the city is out $8."

Mr. Worst then retired, but before reaching the railroad station at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, was impounded by several real estate owners, who tried to sell him a brown-stone front or two on upper Fifth avenue.

President Harrison's Hermit Cousin.

There died one day last week, near Oswego, Kansas, an aged and eccentric man named Alvin Harrison. He was about 73 years of age, and was a cousin of ex-President Harrison. In 1840 he was a promising young lawyer of Ross County, Ohio, and stamped the State in the interest of his cousin, "Old Tippecanoe." Several years thereafter he quit the practice of law, and took up the study of medicine. Later he became engaged to a young lady, and at last the happy day was fixed for the marriage. But before the arrival of the wedding day the young lady eloped with a stage driver. Thereupon Harrison became a hermit. Fourteen years ago he built a log cabin, and took up his abode in the Neosho bottoms, three miles from town. His nearest neighbor at that time was miles away. He lived alone, and subsisted on a scanty and unwholesome diet of spoiled bacon. The cabin was open and uncomfortable, and he slept on a simple pallet of straw.

Improving the Telephone.

New York Graphic.

"There is my new telephone," said Mr. Edison, pointing to a box half as large as a cigar box hanging to a partition. "I have discovered a new substance which, if I can successfully control it, will revolutionize the telephone system. I can't tell you what the substance is, but it enables me to make a telephone which will easily deliver a voice that can be heard in any part of the room in which it terminates. It is not necessary to hold it to your ear at all; you hear it as you hear me, and it delivers the voice without any diminution of volume. I have heard a whisper through it often, and it will deliver a whisper from here to New York, that is, it will if I can control the conditions which makes this substance responsive. Wait a while, and I will show you what can be done in telephones."

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.
Female Freemasons.
From the New York Times 3d.
Some of the Atlantic coast members of what is perhaps the largest and most powerful secret society in existence are discussing the old question whether or not a woman was ever made a Mason. There does seem to be a great difference of opinion on the subject, for only those who are best acquainted with Masonic lore are to speak at all knowingly concerning a mystery which very few have ever been able to explain. It seems to be very generally assumed that by possibility could such an event ever have taken place.
While it is only fair to admit that members of the Masonic fraternity should know more about those matters than any one else, in this case, at least, most of them are certainly ignorant of the real facts of the case. Once, and once only, is it recorded that one from the outer world permitted to be present at a lodge where the intruder was a woman. Toward the middle of the eighteenth century, Irish Lodge No. 44 held meetings at Donnell's house, Arthur, second Lord Donnell, becoming the Worshipful Master.
His sister, Hon. Elizabeth St. Leger, who afterward married Mr. Aldworth, of Newmarket, in the county Cork,
determined, on a certain occasion, to discover what Freemasonry really was. According to one account, says the Masonic Cyclopaedia, "she concealed herself in a clock; and, according to another, "she saw the proceedings of the lodge through a crevice in the wall." That she was made a Freemason is undoubted; though when so made does not quite clearly appear, nor are we informed as to which degree she was advanced to. However, there is no denying that Mrs. Aldworth alone of her sex, during modern times, gained certain of the mystic signs, symbols, grips and passwords, and witnessed the imposing and instructive ceremonies which we have reason to suppose are published within the lodge room.
In the earlier days of Masonry, as shown by some ancient manuscripts, there were "Dame Masons." The "Apprentice" is charged in one manuscript that he "shall not steal or pick away his master's or dame's goods," and in another manuscript that "he shall not disclose his master's or dame's counsel or secrets," whereby it may be inferred that at one time the wives of Masons were permitted to carry on work under the guild, and in that case the apprentice would serve out his time. "It may be," adds the editor of work on Masonic history to which we are indebted for this information, "that this rule was even enlarged so as to admit the widows and daughters of Masons," a supposition which may well suggest misgivings about the secrets imparted to those who knew anything about the order.
Formerly, both in France and Germany, there existed-and now exists in the United States-systems by which women could be made acquainted with certain signs and mysteries, thus enabling them to make themselves known to members of the craft.
In our own country, the adoptive rite-the term adoptive seems to be a Masonic equivalent for female-is was instituted in 1855, consisting of five degrees; Jephtha's Daughter, or the daughter's degree, Ruth, or the widow's degree; Esther, or the wife's degree; Martha, or the sister's degree, and Eletha, or the Christian martyr's degree, the whole assemblage being called the Eastern Star. Now, this body is not Freemasonry, never can be Freemasonry, and is not, of course, recognized by Masons in good standing. Nevertheless, it embraces only the wives, widows, mothers, daughters and sisters of Master Masons, and all the male persons who are members of this adoptive rite must necessarily be Masons. The origin and progress of this rite is not even familiar to most Masons. It was first brought out in 1850, and the degree was first conferred in this city in April, 1853; but the order in its present form was not introduced until in October, 1868, when the system of ceremonies for opening, closing, and initiating candidates was exemplified for the first time before Alpha Chapter.
Since then it has spread all over the country, and in almost every State and Territory chapters have already been established. The order now numbers nearly 20, 000 members in this country alone. But there are signs of discord even in this excellent order, and the chief matter under dispute is whether man or woman shall wear the apron of authority, and whether that apron shall or shall not have a bib to it. It seems not to have been intended by the originators of this order that woman should be its leading executive officer, but rather as an assistant. Nevertheless, the lovely creatures have succeeded in many jurisdictions in securing control of the lodges, and now hold the leading offices.
A Case of Feeling.
A gentleman who was one day relating to a Quaker a tale of deep distress, concluded very pathetically by saying, "I could not but feel for him." "Verily," replied the Quaker, "thou didst right in that thou didst feel for thy neighbor; but didst thou feel in the right place-didst thou feel in his pocket?"

My practice is not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not fear down-make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattery. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained of years of experience in the treatment of chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure every body, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves. It will cost nothing as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Established 1851.
The position of the foremost Republican newspaper in the United States will be sustained by THE NEW YORK TIMES by the same policy in virtue of which that position has been attained. The Times will continue to place fidelity to the interests of the Republican Party above the pursuit of personal aims or private ambition, and will steadily insist that the success of any party must be measured by the extent of its devotion to the honor and welfare of the country. In the future, as in the past, the attitude of THE TIMES will be that of independence within the Republican Party. The maintenance of the national credit; the purification of the public service; the advocacy of all reasonable projects of fiscal reform; rigid economy in public expenditure; opposition to subsidies and corrupt jobbery in all its forms; and the preservation of equal rights to all citizens, North and South, will be the salient points of the policy of THE TIMES.
The Times will continue to be distinguished as an enterprising, accurate, and carefully edited newspaper. The acknowledged excellence and fullness of its correspondence by mail and telegraph from all parts of the world, its adequately maintained, and its facilities for collecting domestic and foreign news will be expanded to meet the increasing demands of our time.
In the sphere of literary and artistic criticism, of scientific, social, and general discussion, THE TIMES will address itself, as heretofore, to the appreciation of the educated and intelligent classes of the American people. It will be lively without being sensational, aggressive without being coarse; at all times it will strive to be fearless and independent in the championship of the right. No theories, no theories of the principles on which the sacredness of family life, and the existence of society alike repose will be promulgated in its columns.
The Times rejects all advertisements of lotteries, of quacks and medical pretenders, and of all other agencies by which the insidious poison of vice is disseminated throughout society. It will be in the future, as in the past, a newspaper especially adapted for family reading.
The WEEKLY TIMES, containing selected editorials on topics of national and general interest from the columns of the daily issue, as well as a concise summary of political, social, and foreign news, besides other features which recommend it to all classes of readers, is a paper admirably fitted to circulate in every portion of the United States. It will be the aim of its conductors to use every means, not only to maintain its well-earned supremacy, but to make its popularity still more decided.

This important work, a collection of the best and brightest gems to be found in the whole field of English poetry, was begun in the fall of 1871, and contains 1200 poems by over 100 authors, English and American.
It has been the aim of the editor to present a comprehensive collection of the choicest specimens of the poetry of the English language, one that will be a welcome companion at every Fireside. Each poem has been given complete, and great care has been taken to follow the most authentic and approved editions of the respective authors. Nearly all the longer minor poems that have become classic will be found in this volume; among which may be mentioned Milton's "Allegro," "L'Allegro," "Comus," and "Lycidas;" Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," and "The Traveller;" Coleridge's "Christabel," and "Rime of the Ancient Mariner;" Pope's "Rape of the Lock," Keats' "Eve of St. Agnes," Campbell's "O'Connor's Child," Shelley's "Adonais," Mrs. Norton's "Young Tray Head," Macaulay's "Horatius," Ayton's "Edinburgh," Flodden, Drake's "Culprit Bay," Thackeray's "Chronicle of the Drum," and Mrs. Browning's "Lady Geraldine's Courtship," with in the shorter poems, Shakespeare is represented by 31 selections; Burns by 23; Scott by 19; Wordsworth by 20; Her- rick by 15; Hood by 15; Tennyson by 24; Moore by 21; Keats by 13; Byron by 16; Shelley by 13; Longfellow by 15; Whittier by 13; Mrs. Browning by 14; Campbell by 13; Southey by 13; and others according to their respective merits.
Here will be found the most important poems by prominent authors, headed other choice selections, and popularity, all carefully arranged under headings, according to the subjects, thus enabling the reader to see at once all the pieces of any particular character that he may desire.
The selection has been pronounced, by many of our most prominent literary men, one of the best and most complete ever made. The work is furnished with an alphabetical index of the names of the poets, and of the authors and also of the first lines, thus making the means of reference more thorough than in any other work of the kind. Explanatory notes and corroborative notes have been appended to the volume, and add greatly to its value.
The book makes a very handsome volume of 1010 pages, printed from new type on fine paper, is illustrated by fourteen engravings on steel, and is bound in beautiful binding. Both in contents and in appearance, this is one of the finest specimens of bookmaking ever produced in this country.

CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFLETS.

—Thaw out.
—School opens.
—The Mutual Improvers to-night.
—Mrs. Rev. F. L. Chapell's condition is reported much better.

—Don't forget the Red Hussars at the Opera House to-night.

—The First Methodist church folk are holding revival meetings.

—The Snell case should be called the Snell case. It moves so slowly.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Morse are gladdened by the advent of a ten pound boy.

—The school children opened up their books this morning for another term's work.

—Regular meeting and installation of Janesville Lodge No. 55, F. & A. M. this evening.

—J. B. Dow, one of Beloit's ablest lawyers, was in the city to-day looking after his legal business.

—The Knights of Honor have a semi-public installation to-night, for which a few invitations have been sent forth.

—Since the girls have all got to wearing those gay colored hoods, the young men are hoodwinked worse than ever.

—Sunday night street loafers need to be taught by some severe lesson, that they cannot insult ladies as they go to and from church. Some of them may learn, the lesson sooner than they expect.

—Captain P. H. Swift, of the Clinton Independent, was a welcome caller at the Gazette office to-day. The Captain has hosts of acquaintances here, made during his residence here and at Edgerton in anterior times.

—The Temple of Honor have decided to give an old folks' social and dance at their hall on the evening of the 21st. The committee consists of B. F. Crockett, M. M. Conant, A. D. Wickham, G. H. Osgood, A. P. Bennett, J. D. King.

—Jo. Skelly, the Shopiere cobbler, was sent to jail last Saturday for five days, for drunkenness. Jo. is a first class workman, and when sober earns good wages, but whiskey has got such a hold on him that he frequently has to visit the cooler.

—Rev. Mr. Fayville's sermon yesterday morning at Court Street church, is spoken of by many who heard it as the best he has delivered since he has been here. Mr. Fayville is growing in popularity, and the society is being surely and steadily strengthened.

—Marshall Keating is compiling a directory, containing the names of those boys who are guilty of sliding on sidewalks at public thoroughfares, and as fast as they repeat the offense they are to be arrested. The boys should bear this in mind, and thus save trouble.

—The first number of The Showman's Advocate is upon our table. It is published by Charles G. E. Veeder, and edited by Thomas A. M. Ward, and is a clean faced, sprightly appearing stranger, which bids fair to be liked still better on more intimate acquaintanceship.

—The suits of F. S. Eldred and O. B. Ford against Deputy Sheriff A. Brown of Fort Atkinson, were before Justice Prichard to-day. These suits are to recover the penalty $250 fixed by law for a refusal to give the plaintiffs copies of warrants served on them as members of the Indian Ford Water Power Company.

—The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Methodist church, will meet at the residence of Mrs. George Haskell, on Cherry street, next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Dexter Tracy will read a paper, which was prepared by her for the Delavan meeting, and which is highly spoken of by all who heard it there.

—Remember the concert of the Red Hussars to-night. The programme will be an entirely new one, and at the low price of admission there should be a crowded house. The Band has shown itself to be one of the best organizations which has visited this city, and none should miss the rare opportunity of hearing such marvelous music as they produce.

—The enterprising druggists Prentice & Erson, have arranged a bulletin board to hang outside of their store, giving the daily telegraphic reports of the Signal Service. They have also arranged for taking local observations of the temperature at 1 o'clock at night, 7 o'clock a. m., 1 o'clock and 6 o'clock p. m. The bulletin will prove a great convenience to those who delight in knowing what the weather has been, and what it is to be.

—The Bower City Band concert at the Congregational church to-morrow night promises to be a grand success. The programme contains a variety of attractions, any one of which will more than repay the small amount asked at the door. The Band offer a musical feast such as seldom spread in this city, and it remains to be seen whether the public will appreciate the same, and encourage the praiseworthy efforts of the Band by crowding the church to overflowing. Their annual concert before have been grand successes, but this promises to eclipse all former efforts.

FIRE AT CENTER.

Yesterday noon the residence of Patrick Tracy, in the town of Center, was burned to the ground, causing a loss of about $600. Nearly all the household effects and furniture were saved. The building was insured in the Continental for $500, and the loss is to-day being adjusted. The fire is supposed to have originated from the chimney.

INSTALLATION.

The following officers were duly installed as officers of America Lodge No. 26, Daughters of Rebecca, on Saturday evening, at Odd Fellows Hall:

N. G.—Mrs. E. P. Nye.
V. G.—Mrs. Z. H. Pelton.
R. S.—Mrs. F. Bennett.
F. S.—Mrs. T. R. Gray.
T.—Mrs. Robert Adley.

W.—Mrs. Mary Brooks.
O. G.—Jerome Howland.

R. S. N. G.—S. B. Kenyon.
L. S. N. G.—B. Hill.
R. S. V. G.—Wm. Wm. Rose.
L. S. V. G.—Mrs. Z. M. Gilmore.

RED RIBBON REYNOLDS.

The Doctor's First Appearance in This State. And a Narration of His Life and Work.

Last evening a large audience assembled at the Congregational church to see and hear Dr. Henry A. Reynolds, the great red-ribbon, whose reputation as a cold water man is not fenced in by any State lines, though his chief fields of work have been New England, Michigan and Illinois.

In Michigan he has accomplished such a great work as to attract the attention of the legislature, and a series of resolutions were passed by the house, the Senate concurring, paying high tribute to him and his work, this being the first and only such case on record. This testimonial, with the State seal and Governor's signature affixed, was elegantly framed, and presented to the Doctor. In introducing the speaker last evening, Rev. Mr. Sawin read these resolutions, and explained how it was that he had secured the Doctor's presence here. He had learned that Dr. Reynolds was where he could be reached, and had telegraphed him to come for one evening, without seeking any advice in the matter, and the Doctor had accepted the invitation. The great temperance worker then came to the front. He is a fine looking man, fully six feet tall, well built, bright-faced, and in his manners is "business all over." He remarked that he would not have allowed the resolutions to have been read in his presence at such a time had it not been that he was an entire stranger here, it being the first time he had ever spoken in this State. He had come here not as an orator, but simply as a brother-man to do what he could to stay the tide of intemperance. He had not come to tell funny stories, to make them laugh or to make them cry. He couldn't do this if he tried, and should not try. He had come to tell facts in his rambling, conversational manner. It was his desire to do good, solid work. In fact he was peddling the substantial corn beef around the country, and he would leave it to those to pass around the fruit cake, plum pudding, and fancy fixings. The speaker opened up by an attack on cider, which he termed the devil's kindling wood, then on home made wines, and gave lager beer the title of the juggernaut of the west. He related some of his personal experiences, he having had, he said, been drunk on all sorts of beverages, and as an experienced drunkard he would prefer to drink the vilest forty-fold rather than lager. Some drank it as a tonic, but this was nonsense. No intelligent physician would claim lager beer to be a tonic. It was simply a stimulant and narcotic. To tell how low he had got on the road of drunkenness, he said he got so that he thought that the only thing water was good for was to form seas and oceans to float ships loaded with whiskey. An eighth of a glass of water would serve him as an emetic. His stomach was in such a shape that he could not drink it. He told his horrible experiences as for seven days and nights he suffered the tortures of the damned in delirium tremens. He squandered $30,000. His profession was gone to the dogs. He had not a hat or a coat that was his own. He burned his razor and pulled out the cartridges from his revolver, lest he should kill himself. Finally, while just verging on another attack of tremens, he promised God that if he could be spared this, he would sign the pledge. Rising from his knees he went to the women crusaders' meeting, and pledged himself to lead a life of total abstinence. That was five years ago next April. He then spoke of what he had been able to do since then, and the condition and prospects of the work. His talk was a rambling conversation, with thrilling passages, touching incidents, and earnest appeals. He spoke for considerably over an hour and was listened to with the closest attention.

USES OF ADVERSITY.

Mrs. Abby Sage Richardson Gave Some Practical Thoughts on Our National Life.

All Souls church was well filled last evening by those who were eager to hear what Mrs. Abby Sage Richardson had to say on "The Uses of Adversity." Mrs. Richardson has already appeared before audiences in this city, and has won her way into popularity by her showing of intellectual strength and culture. In her discourse last evening she took a national view rather than an individual one, and presented thoughts concerning the peculiarities of American life which were well worthy of attention. She spoke of the effect of the financial panic, and remarked that since it began in 1873 there had been an epidemic of dishonesty in national affairs and business circles. One peculiarity of our people was the tendency to fast living and extravagance. Here too young men were constantly seeking to get into positions of trust and responsibility, and were not content to labor and to wait. In Europe they waited until, by years of experience, and by multitudinous tests of different circumstances, they demonstrated that they were both honest and capable enough to fill these positions. In America the largest counting houses, the Boards of Trade, and other great mercantile and moneyed enterprises were ruled by young men who had reached the age of thirty. As compared with Europe it seemed that these positions were being filled by uneducated boys. Among the hopeful aspects of the situation was the greater tendency to domestic economy. Wives were giving less attention to dress, and more attention to educating themselves and their children, and using money for legitimate and useful purposes instead of squandering it for show and high living. Notwithstanding the hard times the nation had begun on a new era as regards manufacturing. We were now sending goods to Europe in great quantities. England complains that we are taking the bread out of the mouths of her laboring classes. The American beef is crowding out the famous English roast. Beer is being sent from here to Germany. Cotton goods from American looms are in great demand across the water. In fact the outlook for America's manufactures is very hopeful. Mrs. Richardson thus filled her hour's talk with practical thoughts, which she presented in a very pleasing manner. Her thought is aggressive, and being clothed in pure diction, she was listened to very attentively to the very finish.

A PARTING PRESENTATION.

Mr. W. P. Douglas, who has for three years past had charge of the weaving department of the cotton factory, severed his connection with the company on Saturday last, and will in about two weeks remove with his family to Lewiston, Maine.

Mr. Douglas came here as an entire stranger, but he does not leave as such. During the three years he has won many friends outside of his business acquaintanceship, and among them there is a unanimous feeling of regret that he should deem it advisable for various personal reasons, to make the change. In his business relationship with the employees of the factory he has not only efficient and active but decidedly popular. Two years ago he was presented with an elegant gold watch, and last Saturday afternoon another expression of kindness was given him, it being the presentation through Mr. Arnold, as spokesman, of a bag of gold. Mr. Douglas was completely surprised, and could only feebly express thanks at the time, but has since penned the following card which is self-explanatory.

Friends and Associates of the Janesville Cotton Mills:

The reception from you of a purse of gold, as an expression of your respect and esteem, has awakened within me the most lively emotions of gratitude, and calls for my warmest thanks. Intrinsically valuable in itself, it is made doubly so when received as a token of love and esteem from those with whom I have been associated in the daily walks of life. With many of you our acquaintance has been long, and of the most pleasing nature; and I can truly regard you as well tried friends;—while with others it has been brief, but nevertheless pleasant. Most assuredly this testimonial of your kind regard shall ever be cherished with the deepest affection.

Very truly yours,
W. P. DOUGLAS.

PREPARE YOUR BALLOTS.

The election of officers of the City Fire Department will be held this evening at the West Side engine house. The following are the nominations made last Saturday night by the delegates from the various companies:

President—W. T. Vankirk, of the Sack Company.

Vice President—Thomas Mahon, of the Hook & Ladder Company.

Secretary—M. A. Norris, of Water Witch Engine Company.

Treasurer—John Kelley, of Washington Engine Company.

Collector—James Shearer, of Hook & Ladder Company.

OPENING OF THE SCHOOLS.

A new 31 grammar school was organized in central district this morning, with Miss Airs as teacher, and a membership of 25 pupils. All the teachers of the corps were in their places at an early hour, and the pupils of the various departments of the city schools enter upon the work of the term with an earnestness that challenges admiration. The following is the enrollment for January 13, 1879:

Boys..... 561
Girls..... 610
Total..... 1,171

REV. MR. SANDERSON RESIGNS.

Yesterday the members of the Presbyterian Society were greatly surprised by having read to them the resignation of their pastor Rev. J. W. Sanderson. The pastor requested that action be taken upon it within a month. It is hoped by Mr. Sanderson's many friends that the resignation will be withdrawn, and that he will continue to occupy that pastorate.

STILL AFTER SNELL.

The examination of Jim Snell occupied the entire day in Justice Balch's court. The witnesses for the defense are being examined, and it is hoped that the arguments will be heard to-morrow.

NO NEW TRIAL.

In the Whitford-Goodrich case to-day the motion for a new trial was overruled. Mr. Whitford's attorneys will take an appeal to the Supreme Court.

A Medicine Chest for 25 Cents.

Pephae no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a good cathartic. SWAYNE'S TAIL AND SARAPARILLA PILLS are prepared expressly to meet this necessity; being composed of purely vegetable ingredients, of which Podophyllin or Mandrake, Fine Tree Tar, Saraparilla, Yellow Dock and other concentrated juices enter largely into their composition; the whole strength of which is extracted on an entirely new principle. They are mild in their operation, produce no griping, and are truly a valuable purgative agent, anti-bilious and cathartic medicine. They stimulate the liver to healthy action, cleanse the stomach and bowels of all impurities. Curing sick and nervous headache, dyspepsia or indigestion, bilious, intermittent, remittent and congestive fevers, languor, drowsiness, itching pains in the back, head, slight chills, with flashes of heat, female irregularities, and for a bilious and costive habit, no medicine is so prompt and effectual as Dr. SWAYNE'S TAIL AND SARAPARILLA PILLS. If your druggist or storekeeper has not got them, or will not procure them for you, we will forward them by mail on receipt of price, (in currency or postage stamps), 25 cents a box, or five boxes for $1. Address letters, Dr. Swayne & Son, No. 330 North Sixth street, Philadelphia. jan13daw1

Do Stop That Cough!

Why in the world don't you go to the drug store and get a bottle of Halsey's Cough Cordial and cure that cough, which is wearing you slowly, but so surely, out? We don't ask you to take any chances on this remedy. If you have not tried it we urge you to get a bottle, and if after using one-half of it you find that it is doing you no good, you can return it and get your money back. S. E. Waterhouse, of Mazomanie, writes: "Three doses cured our little girl of one of the most aggravated coughs. I would not be without it. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. decidedly." dec13daw1

DIED.

CLINK.—On Sunday morning, January 12, 1879, Tootie CLINK, of inflammation of the lungs, died at one and nine months.

The funeral services will be held at the residence of Mrs. Blay, on Locust street, on Tuesday afternoon, at two o'clock. Only a few days ago, the parents lost a twin to Tootie in Chicago, and brought the remains of the little one to Janesville for interment, and while here the other was stricken by disease, and on Sunday morning death claimed it for its own.
